DOCUMENTARY SCREENING: ROMA FROM UKRAINE

Roma from Ukraine are a special group of refugees due to their experience of discrimination in Ukraine and then in the countries they fled to: mainly Poland, Hungary, Slovakia, Romania, the Czech Republic, Germany, and Moldova. The European Commission estimates that at least 100,000 Roma have fled Ukraine. According to estimates by some Roma NGOs, some 10,000–15,000 Ukrainian Roma have reached Poland.

On the evening of the 18th of May, we invite you for a short film screening (17 minutes) to learn more about the stories of Roma fleeing Ukraine.

The film was prepared by Fundacja Jaagew Dikh with support from the ERGO Network and the European Programme for Integration and Migration (EPIM), a collaborative initiative of the Network of European Foundations (NEF).

Dr. Elżbieta Mirga-Wójtowicz, Roma cultural activist, political scientist, and researcher and board member of the Fundacja Jaw Dikh, will be present for an introduction and to respond to questions after the film.

MEASURING HOMELESSNESS IN EUROPE - THE "EUROPEAN HOMELESSNESS COUNTS" PROJECT

ROOM: ROA

Homelessness is a persistent and complex social problem across Europe, necessitating robust, comparable data to inform policy responses and interventions. The "European Homelessness Count" project seeks to address this challenge by developing a more uniform methodology for homelessness counts that is applicable at the city level. In 2024, 15 cities were on board to elaborate and pilot a common methodology to capture ETHOS Light 1-3 and further groups in Europe, which was then scaled up to 35 cities in 2025. The workshop will serve as a forum to discuss the results and the lessons from the two year project. This session is by invitation only.

13:00-14:00

HOMELESSNESS AND THE CLIMATE CRISIS

ROOM: ORCHIDEA A

Last year saw the climate crisis in Europe intensify, as climate-driven heatwaves caused an estimated 16,500 additional deaths across European cities. Severe weather response strategies are becoming increasingly integral to homelessness provision in Europe with people sleeping rough particularly vulnerable to extreme weather events, heat and cold caused by the climate emergency. Climate change is also driving global displacement of people, contributing to growing migrant homelessness in Europe. More than 45 million people globally were displaced by extreme weather events such as flooding, droughts, storms and wildfires in 2024.

Join Depaul International as we explore the intersections of climate change and homelessness. We'll share findings from our new report, The Case for Action on Global Homelessness, examining how recognising homelessness as a frontline climate resilience issue has the potential to be transformative. Our workshop will draw on climate response and climate-resilient solutions to homelessness from Europe and around the world, and encourage practitioners to share learning and practices so we can improve our preparedness and solutions for people at-risk.

13:00-14:00

LAWYERING FOR PEOPLE EXPERIENCING HOMELESSNESS (OPEN SESSION)

ROOM: GERBERA B

This session will provide a structured opportunity for grassroots lawyers and organisations that provide legal advice within homelessness services to exchange ideas. The focus will be on concrete legal problems, effective lawyering strategies and gaps in current protection frameworks. Participants will share their practical approaches to legal interventions, advocacy and strategic litigation, reflecting on how these experiences could be scaled up or supported at the EU level.

The discussion will also explore how FEANTSA and Housing Rights Watch can support this work through coordination, advocacy and litigation strategies, with the aim of improving access to justice and housing rights across Europe.

14:00-15:00

HONOURING PEOPLE WHO DIED HOMELESS (OPEN SESSION)

ROOM: ORCHIDEA B

Death is an often overlooked part of work with people experiencing homelessness. Too often, people die in isolation, without their lives or their stories being properly acknowledged.

The open session will begin with a brief introduction to the working group and the intentions behind the magazine, followed by a few examples of different ways to pay tribute. Participants will then be invited to create their own tributes in whatever form feels right to them. They are free to decide whether they would like their contribution to be considered for publication in the magazine or kept private.

EARLY PREVENTIONS AGAINST ENERGY DEBT AND DISCONNECTIONS

ROOM: GERBERA A

In this session, three experts will share best practices on how energy companies can cooperate with social service providers to spot the early warning signs and resolve energy debt.

SUPPORT ON THE MOVE

Stowarzyszenie Pomocy i Interwencji Społecznej

We invite you to a study visit at the Mobile Support Point (MPP) - a service that combines mobility, specialist assistance and a harm reduction approach. During the visit, participants will learn how the MPP operates, its philosophy based on accessibility and harm reduction, and the range of support provided: social counselling, crisis intervention, basic psychological assistance and help in planning further steps. We will also discuss the flexibility of the MPP, its ability to operate in different locations, and its crucial role for people who remain “outside the system,” for whom low-threshold support is often the only real form of contact with help.

HARMONISING HOMELESSNESS DATA COLLECTION IN THE EUROPEAN UNION

ROOM: STARZYŃSKIEGO

In the Lisbon Declaration (2021), EU Member States committed themselves “to work towards the ending of homelessness by 2030.” Achieving this ambition requires reliable and comparable data on both the scale and the profiles of people experiencing homelessness (PEH) across the European Union. Without harmonised data, the EU cannot effectively monitor progress, assess policy effectiveness, or support mutual learning between Member States.

Harmonising homelessness data, however, is methodologically and institutionally complex. As demonstrated by European Homelessness Counts, these challenges are particularly pronounced in the field of homelessness due to variations in definitions, service provision systems, administrative data infrastructures, and the lived situations of people experiencing homelessness across Member States.

Speakers:

Prof. Dr. Koen Hermans, Coordinator of the European Homelessness Counts Project

Ali Bargu, Economics and Policy Analyst in the Directorate for Employment, Labour and Social Affairs, OECD

DEINSTITUTIONALISATION AND THE HOMELESS SECTOR

ROOM: RATUSZOWA

This session will discuss the deinstitutionalisation model in Poland and Spain. In Poland, an EU-funded project is currently developing a deinstitutionalisation (DI) model, and the workshop will present its preliminary results, including a service framework structured around three areas: homelessness prevention, transition from institutional shelter-based services to housing-led solutions, and outreach services. In Spain, the closing of a shelter led HOGAR SÍ and Provivienda, in coordination with the Madrid City Council, to kick start an innovative project, Rights to Housing. With a transition to a model of community and personalised care, the project aimed to design and implement a model to transform the homeless care system. The session will provide an opportunity to reflect on shared challenges and lessons learned across both national contexts.

CAN WORK BE A WAY OUT OF HOMELESSNESS? WHAT PRACTICE TELLS US

ROOM: KISIELEWSKIEGO

Explore how employment can be a starting point for social inclusion, rather than its final outcome. Drawing on a best-practice exchange between Convergence France and Agape Association's Job First programme (Poland), it highlights how proactive outreach approaches and adapted work opportunities can make access to employment possible even in situations of homelessness. The focus is on employment as a first lever – a point of entry to activate wider social and health support, build self-confidence, strengthen social connections, and provide financial stability – rather than an end goal in itself. This session provides reflections and practical insights on the conditions under which work can support pathways towards stability and inclusion.

Speakers:

Rémi Tricart, Convergence France, France

Jan Strączyński, Agape Association, Poland

Chair: Catherine McGillicuddy, Irish Council for Social Housing, Ireland

The Austrian Ministry for Social Affairs will present the Wohnschirm programme, a nationwide eviction prevention scheme combining social work counselling with financial support to address rent arrears or support relocation. Implemented through NGOs and publicly funded, Wohnschirm demonstrates how early intervention can prevent homelessness at scale.

OVERSEEING THE GREY AREAS: UNREGULATED SERVICE PROVISION

ROOM: KORCZAKA

This session explores the growing role of unregulated or weakly regulated supported housing and service providers. While these arrangements can increase capacity and offer rapid responses, they also raise concerns about quality, accountability, residents' rights, and long-term outcomes. Drawing on practice examples and policy reflections, the session will examine where gaps in regulation emerge, how public funding is justified and monitored, and what risks arise when care and housing responsibilities are blurred. Participants will be invited to discuss how supported housing can balance flexibility and innovation with safeguards, standards, and dignity for residents.

WOMEN'S VOICES

ROOM: TROJKI

This interactive workshop will share the findings of the Women's Voices project, which aims to strengthen responses, improve safety and support for women experiencing homelessness. The project uses a participatory photography methodology called Visual Voices, where women with lived experience of homelessness share their perceptions through images and narration. The women's Visual Voices will be used during the workshop to encourage reflection and discussion about ways to make women's safety needs more visible within services (from outreach to drop in to all sorts of accommodation and housing), and how to action changes to support more gender responsive homelessness services. Participants will learn about the methodology, explore emergent findings, and gain practical skills to apply in their own work.
